Euan's Guide is a disabled access review website where disabled people can share his their experiences in various places and rate their accessibility. As a wheelchair user, I ~~was~~ ^{am} amazed when I came across Euan's Guide. I found the reviews so helpfully ^{helpful} when deciding where to go, included museums, hotels and more. I started adding ~~to~~ ^{to} my own access reviews including on Euan's Guide. And it doesn't ^{didn't} take long to write a ^{the/my} first review. This kind of writing can be done easy ^{easily} while on the go or at home. Each review covers parking, toilets, staff and anything else you want to add. You can also add some of your photo ^{photos}. Everyone has different access requirements, but ^{so} it's good to get reviews from different angles.

Dear Amber,

I'm glad to know that you are interested in the position as a volunteer docent in the city museum. I surely approve of this idea because this job not only is beneficial to your Chinese study but also enables you to learn more about the history and culture of the city.

Before the selection, you'd better prepare a self-introduction, where you can show your love and understanding of Chinese culture. It's also helpful to learn something about the museum in advance, such as its exhibitions and activities. You can either visit its website or go to the museum in person.

Feel free to turn to me if there's any further questions.

Yours,
Li Hua
